

Deloitte Next Generation Workplace – New York

Architect: Gensler

Client: Deloitte

Completion: 2014

Deloitte's Next Generation Workplace is a dynamic and collaborative space designed to increase face-to-face interactions, private discussions, and other types of collaborative work.

Our services included conducting an overall acoustic review of Deloitte's New Generation Workspace designs and using this information to evaluate acoustical issues and determine appropriate design recommendations. Our architectural recommendations involved finishes and sound masking to control privacy within the plaza, closed plan office, library, and cove areas, while our mechanical recommendations involved equipment selection and finish treatments.

Together with Gensler, we helped Deloitte create a new design standard, utilizing their future work spaces to create opportunities for collaboration and leveraging the collective impact of professionals and technology.
